DEAF PET AWARENESS

Your pets are part of your family. You love them unconditionally and they love you back unconditionally. It’s no different with a deaf pet. They are no less capable of love, loyalty, and joy than other pets. Find out more about pet deafness and what you can do to support deaf pets.

SAFETY TIPS FOR CARING FOR A DEAF PET

- Have your pet wear an ID tag that reads, “(pet’s name) is deaf”, along with your name and phone number
- Train your pet with hand signals – start with down, sit, wait, come, and “happy hands”
- Keep your pet leashed when outside the home
- Participate in a basic obedience class

Food rewards are a great way to train deaf pets because they cannot hear positive reinforcements. If treats are not always an option, try the “happy hands” hand signal.

Be aware of your pet’s vulnerabilities and adjust your day-to-day activities to accommodate him or her. For example, wake your pet in the same way every day with a treat in hand. This way it becomes a good experience rather than one where your pet is startled and may react in a negative way.

Make sure to inform strangers and children of your pet’s condition and teach them the hand signals to use for communication.

HOW DO YOU OFFICIALLY DETERMINE IF YOUR PET IS DEAF?

If you are concerned your pet may be deaf, take him or her to the veterinarian for a BAER (Brainstem Auditory Evoked Response) test. This test will allow you to find out the extent of the hearing loss.

WHY DEAF PETS MAKE GREAT COMPANIONS

- Less likely to be distracted by noise
- More attentive to their owners
- Easy to train with hand signals

ADD A DEAF PET TO YOUR FAMILY

- Deaf Paws Haven (US)
- Birch Haven Rescue (CAN)
- Deaf Dogs Rock (US)
- Deaf Dane Rescue, Inc. (US)
- Dalmatian Adoption and Rescue (CAN)
- Aussie Rescue & Placement Helpline, Inc. (US & CAN)
- Petfinder (US & CAN)

Print your own hand signal pocket guide at trupanion.com/deaf-pets